FEBRUARY MEETING

Demonstrator: John Lucas

Biography: I am a retired photographer who also repaired all of our machines and cameras. I have been working in wood both turning and flat work for about 35 years or more; I also dabble in metal working. These skills have allowed me to build almost anything out of wood that I can come up. I also enjoy modifying my machines and building tools. I enjoy learning new and innovative woodturning techniques including trying new tools and new cutting techniques. I have turned a little of almost everything. I'm known for my hand mirrors which I do in many different styles. I enjoy sharing this knowledge to try and help others get past the learning curve. I have written many articles and produced videos on Youtube to try and pass on these skills. I have taught classes at John C Campbell, Arrowmont, and The Appalachian Center for Crafts as well as doing Demos at the National symposiums and many other local symposiums and clubs.

Demonstration: John will demonstrate the necessary requirements and skills needed to turn a natural edge bowl.

Ramblings from the President

Bob Black, President 2015

The Eagle Ranch project for the booth in Market Place in November is taking shape. All money received in excess of the booth rental will go toward the turning studio at Eagle Ranch. Keep those wheels turning?

If you have been reluctant to turn anything for lack of an outlet for your work now you have a place for your turning to go. The place is Eagle Ranch at Market Place. A lot of turned items are necessary to fill up the booth and have backup merchandise under the table to restock the shelves. Any turned item you feel is appropriate for a gift is what we need. We need a lot of these items.

I firmly believe we can do it. Keep in mind that when John C. Campbell Folk School was raising money for the Willard Baxter Turning Studio Jerry Chandler had the vision that Chattahoochee Woodturners should be the top donor among AAW chapters. $3200 was raised and we believe that put Chattahoochee at the top of the list. Historical note: Willard Baxter was our founder and it is in his shop that we meet. There was no obvious market back then for the turned work that was produced for the studio. Here we have a readymade market in Market Place.

There is an ongoing need for raffle items. Please bring in your excess wood, tools or whatever else a wood turner would like to have. Chattahoochee has costs; such as demonstrators and rent. We have a unique position in the turning world in that we have, essentially, our own turning shop. It takes money to keep all of the balls in the air and the raffle is one of the ways we raise money.

TURNING WEDNESDAY: This is one of the best things about Chattahoochee. We have monthly classes in our own shop. They are open to everybody. The only cost is we ask you to throw five bucks in the pot to keep the lights on, and to pay for supplies and wood. The same can be said about our all day workshops put on by outside expert turners. Yet sometimes we have trouble filling these classes.

I suspect that one of the reasons is that many of us are reluctant to turn in a group. You think the other guys are better turners than you or you will be criticized. There is always some guy who is a better turner than you are no matter how long you turn, so get over it.

Don't worry about criticism. Don Griffiths, who runs the Turning Wednesdays, is the best guy I've ever seen at calmly standing by your shoulder helping you get the cut right, show you where to start or answer anything you are having trouble with. Look him up during a meeting and take a moment to get to know him. You will be glad you did. AND, go to a Turning Wednesday or take an all-day class when they come up.

Turning is a physical sport and you learn much faster if you learn by doing. Doing with an instructor to point out better ways to do the job is a lot faster than trying to be self-taught. The better you get the more fun it is. Remember, that's this year's theme – HAVE FUN

January Meeting Notes

Demonstrator: Doug Thompson

Doug gave us an excellent demo on sharpening all the lathe turning chisels. He also included a detail discussion of metals used for lathe chisels and the relative hardness of the current offerings, including the ones he manufactures. He basically has a hands on operation and personally sharpens each of his tools before they are delivered to the customer. His interest in woodturning took him in the direction of toolmaking and now he makes thousands of tools and ships worldwide. Despite his success and having a manufacturing operation that employes five people, Doug still considers this a hobby. I guess that means he is still having fun.

Communication with Mr. Jon DeWaal, Director of Education of Eagle Ranch School.

He came to our January meeting to describe the purpose and mission of the school. They are a school with about 70 at risk kids in residence. The exchange of emails and his response might be interesting to you, the members of CWT, for insight of how Eagle Ranch views our efforts.

"Thanks for coming to the CWT meeting last night. I think the guys were impressed with Eagle Ranch. I think what CWT is trying to do in conjunction with Eagle Ranch is pretty small potatoes for Eagle Ranch given your overall operation, but it's a big deal for CWT . Thanks for helping us promote it.

Bob Black

Thanks for the invite Bob. I thoroughly enjoyed seeing you guys run a wood turners meeting. I would not down play the significance your organization can bring to Eagle Ranch –no small potatoes indeed. In fact I have a strong hope that your organization will have a significant impact on students' lives –giving them something to be proud of from their own efforts to create beauty and function.

I will never forget the response from my mother when in 7th grade I gave her my wood turned bowl for Christmas. She used that bowl till she passed away at 88. I now have that bowl beside my bedside to put my loose change in no small potatoes.

Thanks Bob for your organization's vision to partner with us to do something great for these kids.

Jon DeWaal,
Director of Education, Eagle Ranch School "

Hands On With Don Griffiths

February Session:

Call for Woodturners. The continuation of the Eagle Ranch gift production for the Market Place show will be on the February 18th, Turning Wednesday. These will be a small turned birdhouse projects.

All skill levels are invited. If you are a fairly new turner you will get help on basic spindle turning which is considered the basis for most other styles of turning. If your skills are advanced beyond the novice stage you can participate by going into production mode or helping out others. Everybody helps out each other. Helping each other out covers everything from someone showing you how to make a particular cut on the lathe to old guys who can't think of a certain word and another old guy fills in the word. We like to have young guys since they can think of the missing word faster.

If you have never participated in Turning Wednesday make this your first one. Some people are hesitant to turn in a group of other turners thinking that everyone will be a much better turner than they are. Forget about that line of thinking. You will find the Turning Wednesday under Don Griffiths is a totally non-judgmental group. You will get instruction on what you need to know and if you are not very careful you will have fun learning.

Chattahoochee is one of the few AAW chapters in the US that has its own shop equipped with 7 lathes. Why not make use of the facility.

Come at 10:00 AM, throw $5 in the box for wood and keeping the lights on, bring a sack lunch, drinks are in the fridge at a buck a piece, turn until 2:00 or whenever you want to quit. One word of warning – keep a skeptical mind while listening to the stories around the lunch table. Everyone is very truthful, but some people have been known stretch the truth to great lengths to make a good story better.

January Session: The ornament project was the snowman icicle. We had a good group of turners and instructors.

Attendees: Bill McMahan, Bruce Purdy, Bert Nagy, Bill Tuttle, Kimberly Tuttle, Rhys Tuttle, Bob Black, Mike Peace, Ron Norris, Don Griffiths and David Martin.

Cost: $5.00 Time: 10:00am to 2:00pm.

Bring a lunch, drinks available for $1.00

- ROCKLER: Most of us would rather just shop online rather than driving to Sandy Springs to get a discount. I spend over three hours a day in my car coming and going so I know the frustrations in getting to our store, but keep in mind that we stock several things instore that you will never see on our website. However, if you enjoy letting the Big Brown Truck bring you packages then I would like to extend the following offer: $7 flat rate UPS shipping if you call the store to place your order, mention that you're a club member and get your 10% discount.
